WHO WAS JAMES SQUIRE?

James Squire was a convict, transported to Australia in 1788. He was the first successful cultivator of hops in Australia around the start of the 19th century, and also founded Australia's first commercial brewery in 1798. Squire was convicted of stealing in 1785 and was transported to Australia as a convict on the First Fleet in 1788.

Squire ran a number of successful ventures during his life, including a farm, a popular tavern called The Malting Shovel, a bakery, a butcher shop and a credit union.
